The Prehistoric Adventure of Presto the Dragon

In a prehistoric land, there lived a friendly dragon named Presto. Presto loved to explore and had a special preference for discovering new places. One day, he found a map that led to a hidden cave filled with precious stones.

Presto knew that before going on an adventure, it was important to prepare. He packed a bag with his favorite snacks and a flashlight. Presto always made sure to take precautions to stay safe. He also practiced his flying skills to make sure he was ready for the journey.

As Presto flew over the prehistoric forest, he saw many prehistoric animals. There were gigantic dinosaurs and tiny prehistoric birds. He was careful to stay out of their way and follow the path on his map precisely.

When Presto finally reached the cave, he was amazed by the sight of the precious stones. They glittered and shone in the dim light. Presto carefully picked a few stones to take back home. He knew his friends would appreciate these prehistoric treasures.

On his way back, Presto thought about how important it was to be prepared and take precautions. His adventure was a great success, and he couldn't wait to share his story with everyone.
