Adverbial Clauses

An adverbial clause is a dependent clause that modifies a verb. Find the adverbial clause in each sentence. Write the word it modifies on the short line and the clause on the longer line. Circle the subordinate conjunction (words that tell how, when, why or where).

1. We will go fishing provided that we have the time.

2. I read my book until it was time to eat.

3. We waited while the rain fell heavily.

4. Nathan behaves as if he owns the place.

5. Penny will be here whether it rains or not.

6. Should we get to work after we eat?

7. Whenever you show up, interesting things happen.
