

Name _____

The Race at the Lake

Pete and Jane loved to race their bikes. One fine day, they went to the lake for a big race. The lake was wide, and the path around it was perfect for biking.

Pete said, "Let's see who can race to the other side first!" Jane smiled and nodded. They both got on their bikes and began to race.

The path was smooth and nice. They rode past a large tree and a cute white house. Pete was in the lead, but Jane was close behind.

Suddenly, Jane saw a snake on the path. She braked and stopped in time. Pete looked back and saw Jane was safe. The snake slithered away, and they both laughed.

Pete and Jane started to race again. This time, Jane rode faster. She zoomed past Pete and reached the end of the path first. Jane won the race!

They sat by the lake, shared a juice, and talked about the fun race. They promised to race again the next time they came to the lake.

