Dragon's Secret Garden

In a hidden valley, there lived a dragon named Ragnor. Every morning, Ragnor tended to a secret garden filled with rare plants. One day, while watering the plants, he noticed a small, glowing egg hidden among the leaves.

Ragnor gently picked up the egg and placed it in a nest made of soft moss. He wondered what kind of creature might hatch from it. Days passed, and the egg began to wiggle and crack.

One evening, the egg hatched, and out came a tiny, golden bird. The bird chirped happily and flapped its wings. Ragnor decided to name the bird Goldie.

Goldie quickly became friends with Ragnor, and they spent their days exploring the garden together. They discovered hidden paths and secret ponds, making each day an adventure.

One sunny afternoon, Goldie led Ragnor to a large boulder with ancient carvings. Ragnor touched the carvings, and the boulder rolled away, revealing a hidden cave filled with sparkling treasures.

Ragnor and Goldie knew they had found something special. They decided to share their discovery with the other creatures in the valley, making the secret garden a place of wonder and joy for all.
