Magic Bongos Beat

In a colorful jungle, there lived a monkey named Zong. Zong loved playing his magical bongos every evening. The sound from the bongos was so strong that it echoed through the entire jungle.

One day, Zong decided to write a new song. He wanted the song to be very long and full of joy. As he played his bongos, the other animals began to gather. They formed a circle and started to dance along. Even the wise old frog joined in, hopping to the beat.

The song brought everyone together, and they all sang along, creating a bond that would last lifelong.
