

Name _____

The Wishing Groundhog

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. It's important for individuals with special abilities or powers to use them wisely and thoughtfully because their actions can have a significant impact on others and the world around them. Responsible use ensures that their gifts benefit others and contribute positively to the greater good.
2. Unity and harmony benefit communities and societies by fostering cooperation, reducing conflicts, and creating a sense of belonging and well-being among individuals. They lead to more peaceful and prosperous environments for everyone.
3. Felix likely changed his wish because he realized that material wealth and power couldn't bring him true happiness and respect. This change reveals that Felix had the capacity for self-reflection and growth, showing that he valued wisdom and understanding over superficial gains.
4. Individuals can distinguish between selfish and selfless wishes or actions by considering whether the wish or action benefits only themselves or if it has a positive impact on others and the greater community. Prioritizing selflessness is important because it promotes empathy, cooperation, and the well-being of all living beings.

