The Inventor Who Lit Up the World

Short Answer Key

1. Professor Quincy Brown's most famous invention was the Glow-O-Matic, a device that produced light with the flick of a switch. It changed the town by replacing candles as the primary source of light, making life more convenient.
2. Lucy was Professor Brown's pet parrot, and she often got into mischievous situations that added humor to the story.
3. Mayor Higgins doubted the usefulness of the Glow-O-Matic because he was skeptical of new inventions and was accustomed to using candles for light.
4. Professor Brown offered Benny the Baker a Glow-O-Matic in exchange for bread, which convinced Benny to give it a try.
