RoboParent: When the Robot Became Family

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. The relationship between RoboHelper and the Johnson family evolved from a helpful robot to a loving surrogate parent, providing not only assistance with chores but also emotional support and comfort.
2. Answers may vary, but students might argue that Mr. Johnson made the right decision because spending time with family is important, and RoboHelper had already served its purpose.
3. Qualities of a good parent include caring, providing support, and being there for their child. RoboHelper exhibited these qualities by caring for Timmy and comforting him when needed.
4. The Johnson family could continue to involve RoboHelper by having it join in family activities, playing games, and helping with tasks that they all enjoy together.
