Knitting Club

Kendra loved the knitting club at school. Every week, she knelt by her seat, ready to start a new project.

Her friend Knox always brought extra yarn and needles. They knew they would make something special together.

One day, Kendra noticed a knobby piece of yarn in her kit. She carefully picked it out and showed it to Knox. He laughed and said it added character to her project. They worked hard, knitting and talking, sharing stories about their week.

After a while, Nick, another club member, knocked on the door to join them. He had forgotten his knitting needles at home. Kendra quickly found an extra pair and handed them to Nick. They all laughed and continued their projects, enjoying the cozy club atmosphere.
