

Name _____

Lost in Translation

Short Answer Key

1. Carlos wanted to practice his language skills to challenge himself. He ordered fried sausages from the second vendor, thinking it was a Portuguese dish because he mistakenly believed "cachorro-quente" meant something different in Portuguese.
2. Carlos ordered fried sausages from the second vendor because he mistakenly believed "cachorro-quente" meant "hot dog" in Portuguese. When he explained this to the Portuguese-speaking group, they found it humorous.
3. The group of people speaking Portuguese reacted to Carlos' language mix-up by bursting into laughter and kindly explaining his mistake.
4. Carlos and his family spent the rest of the festival playfully attempting to order food in different languages, which led to laughter and enjoyment for all. Humor played a key role in bonding with people from different cultures.
5. Carlos learned that language mix-ups could lead to unexpected and comical consequences. He also realized that humor could bridge cultural differences and bring people together.

