

Name _____

Dinosaur Time Machine

Max was an inventor who built a time machine to explore the age of dinosaurs. His best friend, Flora, was an avid explorer who loved adventures. Together, they planned to visit a prehistoric era as a way to learn more about the world's history.

The machine had a special sensor to detect any dinosaurs nearby.

When they arrived, they saw a massive Triceratops near a river. The dinosaur was a herbivore, eating plants and leaves. Flora, who was also a great illustrator, quickly sketched the scene in her notebook. As they moved on, they noticed a raptor watching them from a distance.

Suddenly, the time machine's monitor flashed a warning about a nearby predator. Max and Flora hurried to find a safe place. They found an old, abandoned cave, which seemed like a good shelter. Inside the cave, Max used his detector to ensure there were no hidden dangers.

After the predator left, they returned to the time machine. Max was proud of their successful adventure. Flora looked forward to sharing her illustrations and stories with their mentor back home. Their time travel journey taught them the importance of preparation and teamwork.