Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. Hearing from the creature makes the reader feel sympathy for him and understand his loneliness.
2. Some may say yes because another narrator could give even more perspectives, while others may say no because the story already feels balanced.
3. Some readers may believe Victor is truthful, while others may think he leaves out details to make himself look better.
4. Having multiple narrators helps the reader connect to different characters by showing their emotions and experiences in their own words.
