The Magic Race

Jake and Eve loved to race. One sunny day, they decided to have a race in the park. They each had a bike and a bright smile. The park was a nice place with a wide path.

Jake said, "Let's race to the big tree and back!" Eve agreed, and they lined up their bikes. "Ready, set, go!" Jake shouted, and they started to race.

Jake rode fast, but Eve was quick, too. As they zoomed down the path, Jake saw a blue lake and a white swan. Eve saw a cave by the side of the path. The cave had a sign that said, "Make a wish."

Eve stopped and made a wish. She wished for a fast pace to win the race. Her bike glowed, and she sped up. Jake was amazed when he saw Eve ride past him like the wind.

Eve reached the big tree first and then rode back to the starting point. Jake followed close behind. They both laughed and hugged. Eve shared her wish with Jake, and they both agreed that the magic cave made their race even more fun.
