The Tale of the Hare and the Pair

Once upon a time, there was a hare named Harry. Harry loved to hop and play in the meadow. One day, Harry saw a pair of pears hanging from a tree.

Harry's eyes lit up. "Yum, pears are my favorite!" he said. But Harry couldn't reach the pears because they were too high.

Just then, Harry's friend, a parrot named Polly, flew by. "Hello, Harry! What are you trying to do?" asked Polly.

"I want those pears, but they are too high," said Harry.

Polly had an idea. "I will fly up and get the pears for you," she said. Polly flew up, picked the pair of pears, and brought them down to Harry.

Harry was so happy. "Thank you, Polly! You are a great friend," he said.

Polly smiled. "You are welcome, Harry. Let's share the pears."

Harry and Polly shared the pair of pears and had a fun picnic in the meadow. They laughed and played until the sun began to set.

That day, Harry learned that good friends always help each other.
