Dragon School

In a mystical land, there was a school for young dragons. Phoenix, a dragon with bright red scales, was excited for his first day.

He carried a special book that had important spells. In the classroom, a wise dragon named Sylvester taught them about the importance of respect and kindness. During recess, Phoenix and his friends played near the pond, watching tadpoles swim.

The principal, an ancient dragon, had a cryptic message for all the students. He reminded them to practice their flying skills daily. In art class, they learned how to paint beautiful landscapes.

Phoenix was thrilled with all the new things he was learning. By the end of the day, he felt accomplished and happy to be part of the dragon school.
