

Conditional Type 0

A conditional sentence expresses that one thing is dependent on something else. A Conditional Type 0 sentence describes something that is generally always true. It is formed by combining an "if" clause with a main clause.

Type	Verb Tense of the "if" Clause	Verb Tense of the Main Clause
Zero	Simple present	Simple present

Example: If it is sunny, I go out to the garden.

DIRECTIONS: Complete each Conditional Type 0 sentence by adding an if clause.

If Clause	Main Clause
	I knock.
	I ride my bike.
	I hug my dog.
	I stay inside.
	I study.