Penny the Friendly Penguin

Once upon a time, in the icy lands of Antarctica, there lived a playful penguin named Penny. Penny loved to waddle around with her friends and slide on the smooth ice.

One day, while Penny was exploring near the frozen sea, she spotted a shiny treasure buried in the snow. It was a silver key with a little note attached. Excitedly, Penny picked up the key and read the note. It said, "This key unlocks the door to the Penguin Palace where the magical ice cream is hidden!"

Penny's heart raced with excitement as she imagined the delicious ice cream waiting for her. Determined to find the Penguin Palace, Penny set off on an adventure, waddling through the snowy landscape, and hopping over icy rocks.

Along the way, she encountered friendly seals, squawking seagulls, and even a snoozing polar bear. But Penny didn't let anything stop her. With each step, she could feel herself getting closer to the magical ice cream, and her short e vowel sound echoed through the icy air.
