

ANSWERS

Verbal irony is when a speaker says something intended to be understood in a way other than its literal meaning.

Situational irony occurs when the outcome of a situation is completely different from what the reader (or audience) expects.

Dramatic irony is incongruity between what a character knows and what the audience knows.