

Name _____

Mouse's Turn

Short Answer Key

1. The mouse brings a tiny backpack for the boy because he thinks the boy needs school supplies just like a mouse would.
2. The mouse makes learning different by making the lessons silly, running around, and turning every subject into something about cheese.
3. One example of chaos is when the mouse runs around the classroom, knocks over papers, and climbs onto bookshelves.
4. The ending suggests the adventure isn't over because the mouse suddenly remembers something important and starts looking in his backpack, just like at the beginning.
5. The boy has trouble keeping up because the mouse is full of energy, constantly switching activities, and making up his own rules.
