

ANSWERS

A proverb is an expression of practical truth or wisdom (often from folklore).

An adage is an aphorism that is well known through long use.

A maxim is a short, memorable statement often related to morality or the sciences

An idiom is a short, memorable statement whose true meaning does not come from their literal interpretation. An idiom does not necessarily express a practical truth or wisdom, though it can.

A motto is a short, memorable statement that expresses the value and/or mission or a person/group

A quote is a direct saying from a person. A quote can be of any length.