

ANSWERS

Premise 2 uses the word “most” and not all, so not all athletes enjoy watching sports. Therefore, it’s a fallacy to say that Tony enjoys watching sports based on these premises.

Premise 2 is factually incorrect. Not all people who live in the country have a garden.

Premise 2 uses the word “many” and not all, so not all doomsday preppers are politically conservative. Therefore, it’s a fallacy to say that Jack is politically conservative.

Premise 2 is factually incorrect, therefore, the conclusion is a fallacy.