

The Roof and Mr. Gold

Mr. Gold was a handyman. He wore his tool belt everywhere. Everyone knew Mr. Gold because he was always helping people.

This week, he was helping Mrs. Frank by putting a new roof on her dog Toby's dog house. Mr. Gold had brought the roof over in one piece. He tore the old, damaged roof off the dog house and threw the pieces away. He was about to put the new roof on, when it began to rain.

From her back door, Mrs. Frank called to Mr. Gold, "Come inside and get out of the rain!"

"No need," Mr. Gold said, picking up the new dog house roof and standing under it. "I've got a solid roof over my head!"

1. What is Mr. Gold's job?

2. What job is Mr. Gold going for Mrs. Frank?

3. Why doesn't Mr. Gold come in out of the rain?
