

Conditional Type 1

A conditional sentence expresses that one thing is dependent on something else. There are several types of conditional sentences. A Conditional Type 1 sentence describes a possible condition and its probable result. It is formed by combining an "if" clause with a main clause.

Type	Verb Tense of the "if" Clause	Verb Tense of the Main Clause
One	Simple present	Simple future

Example: if I am bored, I will build something.

DIRECTIONS: Complete each Conditional Type 1 sentence by adding an if clause.

If Clause	Main Clause
	I will call you.
	I will try again.
	I will bake a cake.
	I will sleep in.
	it will be a snake
