

Adjectival Clauses

A clause is a group of words that contains a subject and a predicate. An independent clause expresses a complete thought and can stand alone as a sentence. A dependent clause that functions as an adjective clause usually begins with who, which or that.

DIRECTIONS: Underline the adjective clause in each sentence below. On the line, write the word each clause modifies.

_____ 1. That's the dog who pulled me down the road.

_____ 2. The book that I read was wonderful.

_____ 3. The bread which Frank bought was crusty.

_____ 4. The boy who I like is named George.

_____ 5. I gave my sister the sweater that I found.

_____ 6. This idea, which is outlandish, just might work.

_____ 7. The teacher who assigned this work is nuts.

_____ 8. I saw the film that you told me about.

_____ 9. I took a chance which turned out to be good.
