The Tree's Wings of Dreams

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. Timber's dream of flying was unique and special compared to other trees because trees are not typically known for having the ability to fly. Most trees are rooted to the ground, making Timber's dream stand out as an extraordinary aspiration.
2. Professor Whimsy was willing to help Timber achieve his dream of flying because he was a quirky inventor who loved challenges and believed in the power of dreams. He saw the potential in Timber's determination and wanted to support him in making his dream come true.
3. Timber's determination contributed to the success of his adventure by motivating him to keep trying even when faced with challenges. His persistence and willingness to practice using his wings allowed him to eventually achieve his dream of flying.
4. The message from Timber's story is that with determination, creativity, and the help of supportive friends or mentors, one can overcome challenges and make their dreams come true. It encourages readers to pursue their dreams, even if they seem unusual or challenging, and to embrace the support and guidance of those who believe in them.
