

Name _____

Frosty's Friendship Adventure

In the cozy town of Snowville, there lived a lonely child named Sally. She spent most of her days watching other children play outside from her window, feeling like she didn't quite fit in. Sally longed for friends and a sense of belonging.

One snowy morning, as Sally gazed out her window, she noticed something unusual in her backyard—a magical snowman! This snowman was unlike any other; it had a big, round belly, a carrot for a nose, and the most mischievous twinkle in its coal eyes. This was Frosty, the Snowman of Snowville.

With a burst of magic, Frosty came to life, wobbling and dancing around the yard. "Hello there, Sally!" he greeted, his voice as jolly as a bell. "I'm here to be your friend and help you find new pals!"

Sally's eyes widened in amazement. She stepped outside, and together with Frosty, they embarked on a whimsical adventure to bring friendship to Snowville.

Their first stop was at Mr. Grumpy's house, who rarely smiled and always kept to himself. Frosty suggested, "Let's make Mr. Grumpy laugh!" They built a snowball catapult and sent a snowball flying through Mr. Grumpy's window, narrowly missing him. To their surprise, Mr. Grumpy burst into laughter at the sight. He even joined them for some snowball fun, and soon, he wasn't so grumpy anymore.

Next, they visited the Candy family, who were known for their love of sweets but were too shy to make friends. Frosty whipped up a batch of magical snowflake cookies that sparkled and twinkled. The Candys were delighted and invited Sally to their tea party, where they became fast friends.

Their adventure continued as they helped a group of kids build the world's largest snow fort, rescued a kitten stuck in a tree, and even organized a grand snowball fight in the town square.

As Frosty spread joy and laughter throughout Snowville, Sally made more friends than she ever imagined. The children welcomed her with open arms, and the town felt like a warm and loving family.

One evening, as the stars twinkled in the snowy sky, Sally thanked Frosty for helping her find friends and a sense of belonging. With a twinkle in his coal eyes, Frosty smiled and said, "Remember, Sally, you've got the magic of friendship in your heart. You'll never be lonely again!"

From that day on, Sally's life was filled with laughter, adventures, and the joy of friendship, all thanks to her magical friend, Frosty the Snowman.

