The Creation Curse

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. Victor's experience shows that when humans try to control nature without thinking of the consequences, things can go wrong.
2. He could have taken responsibility for his creation and helped it learn how to live among people.
3. If Victor had been kind, the creature might not have felt angry and lonely, and the story could have had a happier ending.
4. The story teaches us that we should take responsibility for our actions and think carefully before making big decisions.
