

Name _____

Food Truck Frenzy

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. Sam and Mia wanted the prime spot on Elm Street because it was a high-traffic area with the potential for more customers and higher profits. They both wanted to succeed and be the best in their respective businesses.
2. Lisa's suggestion changed the course of Sam and Mia's rivalry by introducing the idea of collaboration and partnership. It allowed them to combine their culinary skills and create something new and exciting that benefited both of their businesses.
3. Sam and Mia decided to share the prime spot on Elm Street because they realized that working together was more profitable and satisfying than competing. They saw the value in complementing each other's offerings and forming a successful partnership.
4. We can learn that while competition can be healthy, cooperation and collaboration can lead to even greater success. Sam and Mia's story shows the importance of finding ways to work together and benefit from each other's strengths rather than constantly competing.

