

Single vs. Double Quote

Use double quotation marks to indicate that you are quoting exactly what someone said. Use single quotation marks to enclose a quotation inside quoted direct speech. Write two sentences that use each quotation. In the first sentence, include each quotation and the name of the person who said it. In the second sentence, embed the quotation inside of quoted direct speech.

Be yourself. Everyone else is already taken. (Oscar Wilde)

Carpe diem. (Horace)
