

Name _____

The Hanukkah Book Club Adventures

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. The friends were motivated to start "The Hanukkah Book Club Adventures" by their desire to learn more about Hanukkah and uncover hidden stories related to the holiday. Their choice of the first book reflected their goal of discovering the lesser-known aspects of Hanukkah and deepening their understanding of their heritage.
2. One of the hidden stories the friends discovered was about a family that made and gave away sufganiyot to their neighbors during Hanukkah, spreading kindness and joy. This story inspired the friends to bake sufganiyot together and start a new tradition of sharing them with their neighbors, fostering a sense of community.
3. The concept of "hidden miracles" in Hanukkah inspired the friends to appreciate the small, everyday miracles in their lives. For example, a hidden miracle could be when someone unexpectedly helps you when you're feeling down or when you achieve something you thought was impossible. This concept encouraged them to look for positivity in unexpected places.
4. The final Hanukkah celebration was meaningful to the friends because it allowed them to connect with their heritage and each other. They lit the menorah, shared their own stories, and sang traditional songs, creating a sense of unity and celebration of their cultural identity.
