

Name _____

The Farm's Rebirth: A New Beginning in the Countryside

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. Sarah's relationship with the farm evolved from a daunting challenge to a source of great joy and fulfillment. At first, it was overwhelming, but as she restored it, she developed a deep connection to the land and its potential.
2. Sarah possessed qualities like determination, hard work, adaptability, and a willingness to learn from others, which helped her succeed in restoring the farm and building a thriving community around it.
3. Sarah's grandfather's legacy influenced her decision to embrace the farm because it held cherished childhood memories and represented a connection to her family history. She wanted to honor his dream of a thriving farm.
4. Answers will vary. Some may choose to embrace the opportunity to restore the farm and live in the countryside, while others may prefer the city life. The decision would depend on personal preferences and priorities.

