

Name _____ Commas

Commas and Appositives

A noun phrase that restates the noun is called an appositive. An appositive adds additional information or clarifies which noun is intended. Use commas to set an appositive in a sentence.

This conch, the one I found at the beach, is huge.

Rewrite each sentence, adding commas to set off the appositives.

1. The storm a real deluge is over now.
2. My breakfast fruit and nuts was delicious.
3. In every job even this one I have learned something.
4. The sun my warm friend has finally returned.
5. Alexis my sister is coming home from college.
6. This quilt a handmade masterpiece was my mother's.
7. Dinner only a pizza will be late tonight.
