

Articles

Like adjectives, articles are words that modify nouns. There are two articles in English: the and a/an. "The" indicates a specific or particular noun. It is called the definite article. "A/an" indicates a non-specific or non-particular noun. It is called the indefinite article.

DIRECTIONS: Circle the article in each sentence.

1. I missed the bus.
2. Let's have a pizza tonight.
3. May I have an orange?
4. I found a great book.
5. I have a new hero.
6. This is the best cookie.
7. I want a goldfish.
8. Here is the fishbowl.
9. We don't have an appointment.
10. I have an idea.