All About Monkeys

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. Monkeys are intelligent because they use tools, like rocks to open nuts, and they solve problems to find food.
2. Monkeys communicate using sounds, facial expressions, and body movements, which helps them warn each other about danger and stay connected in their troop.
3. If forests were destroyed, monkeys would lose their homes and food sources, which could lead to some species becoming extinct.
4. Scientists study monkeys to learn more about their behavior, intelligence, and how they are similar to humans, which helps us understand the natural world better.
