Ant Power

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. Ants are successful because they are highly organized, work together, and never give up when facing challenges.
2. I worked as part of a team during a group project at school. By sharing tasks and helping each other, we completed it successfully.
3. Ants never give up because survival depends on their teamwork. If they stop working, their colony might not have enough food or protection.
4. If humans worked together like ants, we could solve problems more efficiently, accomplish more, and create a more cooperative world.
