Name
Bones: Nature's Architect for the Human Body Short Answer
1. Give an example of how bones are involved in everyday movements.
2. Explain why bones are crucial for protecting vital organs.
 Describe the role of bones in storing minerals.
e. Describe the rele of beries in stering runnerals.
4. Where are blood cells produced in the body, and what is their significance?
5. How do muscles work in conjunction with bones to create movement?

