

Name _____

A Day in the Life of a Bass

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. Example: Bass may prefer to live alone because it gives them more control over their territory and food without competition.
2. Example: If I were a bass, I would hunt in the early morning, hide under rocks during the hot afternoon, and hunt again in the evening.
3. Example: In spring, bass are more social because it's breeding season. In other seasons, they are more solitary and focused on hunting.
4. Example: Understanding bass habits helps scientists protect their habitats and allows fishers to know when and where to find them.
