Talking Beetles: How Beetles Communicate

Short Answer Key

1. Bark beetles use pheromones to attract other beetles to a good tree or warn them of danger.
2. Fireflies use their light signals to find mates or sometimes trick prey.
3. Tiger beetles make noises through stridulation to warn predators or other beetles.
4. Beetles use body language, like raising their back legs, to scare predators or defend themselves.
5. Communication helps beetles find mates, protect themselves, and warn others of danger.
