Bookshelf Adventure

Words from book spines come to life,
In a tale of wonder, free from strife.
On the bookshelf, they sit in a row,
Ready to tell a story, so let's go!
"The Secret Garden" whispers its plea,
To unlock its magic, come with me.
"Treasure Island" calls with a gleam,
A pirate's life, a daring dream.
"Charlie and the Chocolate Factory," a sweet delight,
Golden tickets, a chocolatey flight.
"Alice in Wonderland," where whimsy resides,
Down the rabbit hole, where curiosity guides.
"Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone" in hand,
A world of wizards, you'll understand.
"The Chronicles of Narnia," a wardrobe's door,
To a snowy world, adventure galore.
"The Jungle Book" with creatures so wild,
Mowgli's journey, as a jungle child.
"Where the Wild Things Are," a rumpus and play,
In Max's world, we'll spend the day.
"Matilda" with books and magic so bright,
A girl with wits, who takes flight.
"The Hobbit" and a quest to go far,
With Bilbo Baggins, under the star.
Through the book spines, we'll boldly tread,
In adventures, our imaginations are fed.
With words as our guide, we'll explore and roam,
In the world of stories, we find our home.
