Breaking Rules

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. Answers will vary, but students should describe what a crayon might say and how they'd like to be used.
2. Answers should discuss how the story shows that art doesn't have to follow strict rules and that creativity comes from experimenting.
3. Answers should explore how traditions and expectations shape the way people think and do things.
4. Answers should include a personal experience where breaking a small rule led to a creative or helpful solution.
