Bumblebees: Nature's Little Helpers

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. Bumblebees are important because they help plants grow, which provides food and oxygen for animals and humans. Without them, ecosystems would struggle.
2. Without bumblebees, many plants wouldn't grow properly, leading to less food for animals and humans. The balance of nature would be disrupted.
3. Communities can create bee-friendly gardens, avoid harmful chemicals, and teach others about the importance of bumblebees.
4. Bumblebees show us that teamwork and balance in nature are essential for the environment to thrive.
