Letters from Camp Sunshine

Short Answer Key

1. The camp's daily routine included morning hikes, campfire stories, and outdoor activities, all overseen by the camp counselor, Miss Harriet.
2. The pursuit of the hidden treasure strengthened friendships and camaraderie among the campmates, leading to more amiable interactions.
3. The discovered letters and keepsakes from past campers revealed the joys, fears, and dreams of campers from generations past, creating a sense of continuity and legacy.
4. The letter conveys the message that true treasures in life often lie in the friendships we forge and the stories we share, rather than material wealth.
5. Students might suggest that the campers were captivated by the idea of finding the hidden treasure because it added excitement and adventure to their camp experience, creating a sense of purpose and camaraderie.
