Journey to the Past: Prehistoric Adventures with Cavemen

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. Answers may vary. (e.g., I would want to learn about their survival techniques, how they made tools, and what their daily routines were like.)
2. Answers may vary. (e.g., I wake up in my cozy cave, gather berries and nuts for breakfast, then go hunting with the tribe. In the afternoon, we explore the nearby forest and gather more food. At night, we sit by the campfire and share stories.)
3. Early humans' way of life changed over time as they learned to farm, domesticate animals, build settlements, and develop complex societies.
4. Being resourceful means finding clever and practical solutions to challenges. Early humans needed to be resourceful to adapt to their environment, find food, and protect themselves from dangers.
