Short Answer Key

1. Charlie's family's poverty meant he often went to bed hungry, wore old clothes, and only had one chocolate bar a year.
2. Charlie's careful way of eating his chocolate bar shows that he is patient, grateful, and does not take things for granted.
3. Charlie was shocked and grateful to find the Golden Ticket, while the other children expected to win or bought their way in.
4. Charlie learned to be kind, patient, and appreciative of small things because he grew up with so little.
5. Charlie's humility helped him because he never acted greedy or selfish, and he followed Wonka's rules while the other children did not.
