Codenames: A Word-Based Spy Thriller

Short Answer Key

1. Teams win in Codenames by identifying all their agents on the board. If they choose the opposing team's assassin card, they lose instantly.
2. Spymasters in Codenames provide one-word clues and numbers to their team. They possess knowledge of the identity and location of their team's agents on the board.
3. The game board in Codenames consists of a 5x5 grid of word cards laid out on a table.
4. Codenames is typically designed for at least four players and requires two teams to play effectively.
5. Since its initial release, Codenames has seen various adaptations and expansions, including Codenames: Pictures and Codenames: Duet, which offer different gameplay experiences while retaining the core mechanics.
