

Name _____

Colorful Personalities

Short Answer Key

1. Duncan realized this when he read their letters and saw that some were overworked while others felt ignored.
2. Beige Crayon felt unimportant because it was only used for things like wheat and sand, while Brown got to color exciting things like animals.
3. Duncan used colors in new ways, like making a pink dinosaur and a black beach, so that all the crayons felt included.
4. Black Crayon wanted to do more than just outline—it wanted to color in big, important things.
5. The crayons have emotions like real people—some feel overworked, others feel unnoticed, and some just want to contribute more.

