Koalas: Communicating in the Wild

Short Answer Key

1. Male koalas make deep, bellowing calls to attract females and warn other males.
2. The scent gland helps koalas mark their territory by rubbing it on trees.
3. A threatened koala might bare its teeth and puff up to scare off danger.
4. Joeys stay connected by making soft sounds like squeaks and clicks.
5. Body language helps koalas express emotions and protect themselves.
