

Name _____

Transforming Society and Economy: The Social and Economic Consequences of the Industrial Revolution

Short Answer Key

1. Urbanization led to the rapid growth of cities and overcrowded living conditions.
2. The Industrial Revolution led to a shift where parents and children often worked separately, reducing family time.
3. The goals of emerging labor movements included advocating for better pay, shorter work hours, and safer workplaces.
4. The Industrial Revolution fueled economic growth but also exacerbated income inequality.
5. The Industrial Revolution contributed to the expansion of colonial empires through new trade patterns and economic power.

