

Name _____

Can You Make Something “Disappear” in a Chemical Reaction?

Short Answer Key

1. They bubble and release gas, creating a new substance.
2. Because some matter, like gas, can't be seen easily.
3. It explains that matter doesn't disappear, it just changes form.
4. A burning candle or rusting metal.
5. Scales and tools that measure mass.