The Birth of a Nation: Why Were the Articles of Confederation Created?

Short Answer Key

1. The main concern of the Founding Fathers when creating the Articles of Confederation was the fear of establishing a strong central government that might become oppressive.
2. The Articles of Confederation addressed the issue of state sovereignty and central authority by creating a loose alliance of states with a weak central government.
3. The central government under the Articles of Confederation had the authority to conduct foreign affairs, make treaties, declare war, and maintain an army and navy, among other powers.
4. Equal representation among the states in the Continental Congress ensured that each state, regardless of size or population, had one vote in decision-making.
5. The Articles of Confederation faced limitations such as financial instability due to a lack of taxing authority and the challenge of amending the document, among other issues.
